

Submitter:

Patrick Driggett

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Rules

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SB210

In a World that looks to be repeating the belligerent mistakes of the past, it is clear that those countries that value democracy and make voting accessible are bucking this worrying trend. Without evidence of systemic problems of voter fraud, of which there is none, despite fear-mongering anecdotes, we should be making voting even more accessible. We must be brave in the face of authoritarianism, hold fast, or we shall all lose the opportunity to have our votes count, even those that believe it would never be them. Don't fall victim to bogeymen, turn off the news, and talk to real people and realize that we must be together as community and vote together as a community as well.