SB210

If you force me to show up in order to vote, I will be a less informed voter. I may not even vote. I fucking hate waiting lines. If you're concerned about security, grow up, stop being an old tech-illiterate Louis L'amour character. Join the 21 century and work on our voting information security ya loons. Do try and take us back to the stone age.

I sit down on Saturday mornings with a cup of coffee and I spend hours voting. I'm not fucking kidding. I research candidates, positions, measures. Sometimes this take me multiple days to complete. Fuck you for trying to take that away from me, just because you can't fathom help run what you think is a secure enough voting system.

Whoever is introducing this bill sucks. Tell them to go dip their finger in a far of ink and write an L across their forehead. Requiring in person voting is the dumbest thing I've heard of in Oregon since the requirement to have someone else pump my gas.
