To Whom It May Concern,

Vote by mail is the best way to ensure the most amount of people get a voice (and choice) in our democratic process. Eliminating this option would severely affect the population's options to vote, especially for working class individuals with limited time. I am strongly opposed to eliminating the vote by mail option.

If anything we should be expanding the options to vote, such as digital submissions online after verification of identity.

I have yet to see any proper justification in eliminating this option for Oregon residents, especially since there's been no evidence of mass voter fraud happening in Oregon.
