This is the dumbest idea I have heard in a long time, which is saying something in the Trump era. I work full-time in a hospital and don't get off work until around 6pm, working every Tuesday. Most of my coworkers pull 12 hour shifts and have childcare obligations. There is no way any of us would have time on an Election Day to stand in line before polls close at 8pm. Vote by mail is the best remedy for this, and allows lots of other workers in 24/7 industries to vote on their own schedule. I also proudly can say I have never missed an election because of vote by mail, even the little off-year elections. Why are we trying to mess up a system that saves money in setting up polling stations (helping rural voters), and has led to the highest voter turnout nationwide for more that 25 years? No one had such a stupid idea on the Republican side until the election deniers came on the scene. Norma Paulus is rolling in her grave.
