In-person voting with ID and paper records and multi-partisan election observers is the best and only way to ensure every citizen's vote is counted once.

No more anonymous ballot dumps of harvested ballots.

No more unmanned ballot boxes set on fire in the middle of the night.

No more reliance on DMV employees to assess citizenship.

No more unverifiable chain of custody which includes every mailbox and postal worker in the state.

No more dead people voting.

No more untraceable computer software updates.

No more back-office shenanigans or reliance on a ruling party that can't even manage its own offices competently.

You can say "oh that's not really happening" (except when -- oops! it does) till you are blue in the face. There is NOTHING more important to a democratic system than trust in the voting process. Fix this, cheaply and easily, with the same open, transparent, visible process used in every other country in the world. In person, identified, on paper.
