I strongly object to limiting the present process of Vote-By-Mail which has been the way the majority of people of this state now vote. By requiring in-person voting the requirement for the day of the election will discriminate against many people who cannot travel to a polling place the day of the election. Vote-By-Mail has been an established process in this state for many years and it has worked well. I see no reason to change it.

I sense the reason behind this bill is to prevent a segment of the population from voting. If that is not the reason, then what is the objective?
