Doing this will make it harder for people to vote thus limiting the voice of the people as there are people who cannot travel to a poll location that specific day. I work a job where it is hard to get off given a day or that i might be travelling thus I might not be able to vote that day.

Unless you are going to give everybody that day off in the state and ensure companies do this you are ensuring to not allow all residents to vote. Some reason people might not be able to do that on that day as some might not have transportation issues, not have money to take other means of transportation, work doesn't allow them to get off, people might be on business/personal trips, they end up having to deal with an emergency and other factors.

This will cause higher stress for people in their day which we don't need.

You are limiting the number of people who can vote by doing this and there is nothing wrong with the way OR has been doing voting. Stop trying to change things that are good for the people and that allows all people of OR to have there voice heard.
