SB210

I have lived and voted in Oregon for the majority of my life, and I strongly oppose this measure. Our beautiful state has high turnout because vote by mail is the default. Requiring residents to vote in person will mean many votes, especially among citizens that cannot get time off work or who live in rural counties, will no longer be counted

This is a massive mistake that will ultimately harm democracy in our state, and will require budgetary and personnel resources that our current system of mail-in voting does not.

Why change something that works perfectly?
