In-person only is a tactic use by cowardly politicians who are afraid of their own constituents. It disproportionately disenfranchises the poor, the working class, the elderly, and the infirm. It is, plainly and simply, voter suppression.

Oregon's current system of mail-in voting invites no fraud, and should be a proud bellwether of our state's commitment to democracy, one that the whole country should seek to emulate. We should not backslide to appease would-be tyrants.
