I sternly oppose the notion of all voting needing to be done in person due to historical precedents of voter intimidation, threats of violence, and numerous vulnerabilities both domestic and international re: potential for mass casualty events in order to attempt to suppress voters.

Mail in and drop off ballots are successful, equitable for those in rural areas and for those with inability to reach polling centers that would certainly require long distance travel to one's nearest high population city/town.

Say no to gerrymandering attempts, for that is what this is. Mail in + ballot drop off locations are here to stay as we continue to progress, not regress.
