

Submitter:

Rocky Skoog

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Rules

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SB210

I registered to vote through the Oregon DMV. I had to bring my original birth certificate twice to renew my driver's license. (That proves it's me, a legal citizen of Oregon). My ballot is mailed to me. (To the same address that's on my driver's license). I return that ballot signed (The same signature I use for my license and to register to vote).

So, I show up in person with proof I was born here. I Document my address with the DMV (Two bills or pieces of mail). The government mails me my Ballot (Same address). I return that ballot with a matching signature.

How is that not better than a piece of "Voter ID"?

Why are we trying to fix something that isn't broken?