I am 69 and housebound due to a total colectomy done 26 years ago. One of the perks when we moved from California to Oregon was automatic mail in voting. To require only walk-in voting is an impossibility for me for the rest of my life. Due to severe spinal stenosis, I can't stand more than 10 minutes. Changing the voting requirements will hamper several thousand voters from being able to vote, most being seniors like me and disabled like me. Of course, this is why Republicans are trying to pass this. I think the entire country should allow mail in voting to get an accurate gauge of what voters sincerely want.
