

Submitter:

Suzanne Housty

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Rules

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SB210

Requiring in person voting hobbles the democratic process. It limits voting ability and accessibility for anyone who is poor, disabled, ill, injured, or any number of other bona fide reasons to use mail in voting.

Mail in voting allows for time to research and understand what one is voting on

Mail in voting is a benefit to employers as well, because people do not have to take time away from their jobs in order to exercise their right and obligation to vote.