Reducing access to mail-in voting is antidemocratic backsliding that goes against fundamental American values. Oregon's mail-in voting system is a cherished benefit enjoyed by all Oregonians and has no significant downside. Anything that increases voter participation is valuable.

Voters must already be citizens to vote. Requiring ID is an unnecessary hurdle designed with the partisan intention to suppress low income voters.

Our State Senators and Representatives must move to protect Oregonians' mail-in ballot access or face robust primary challenges.
