Election Security is not at risk and if it were, getting rid of or easing the ability to mail in vote means cutting off thousands if not tens of thousands peoples only option and access to vote in elections, this notion that we need "more election security" stems solely from Trumps ridiculous rhetoric surrounding his belief that he lost the election due to the democrats "stealing it". So no I do not want in person voting to be the main form of voting that's insane and against the constitution.
