I'm strongly opposed to this proposal to require voting to be in person. I used to live in Ohio, where this was the case, and often was unable to vote as a result. This is clearly an attempt to suppress votes, not prevent a nonexistent problem. I've been amazed by how wonderful Oregon is since moving here because it's so much simpler and easier to vote. I have been encouraged by a sense that it's actually desired to have people voting, versus in other states where everything possible is done to create barriers and prevent people from doing it. I know many disabled people, those with young kids, those who work long hours, and those who just might happen to be sick that day, who would be hindered in ability to vote if this happens. Please don't allow this.
