SB210

There are many people who would be unable to vote if in-person voting were required: the ill or disabled who couldn't get to the polls; parents taking care of children who didn't have access to a baby sitter or some other childcare so that they could go to vote; adults taking care of physically or mentally disabled parents at home, who couldn't find someone to take care of the disabled person so that they could go to vote; people holding two jobs who didn't have time to go to the polls without endangering their employment status. These are just a few examples. This bill would endanger the high level of democracy that our state has attained.
