Having the ability to vote by mail gives me the time to research and review each candidate. I dedicate several hours each major reelection to understanding who I am going to vote for. This is a huge benefit to me as a working parent. Needing to wait in line at a poll on Election Day and either having to arrange childcare or take my kids with me, would be costly and stressful. I would not be able to commit the time and focus to making such important choices on Election Day.
