SB210

Upon moving to Oregon 20 years ago, I was surprised to find a different way of voting. I was immediately enamored with it. I could take my time sitting and looking over all the issues and candidates slowly at the dinner table over the course of a week. Or I could sit and do it all in one go if I was in the mood. Most importantly I don't have to worry about having time off work or scheduling around voting day. I can sit and make informed decisions at my own pace. Another plus I think is worth considering going forward is having a paper trail to be able to check results against computer records.

Thank you for listening.
