Vote by mail is by far the best method. I brag about it to people from other states constantly. I spend hours researching the candidates for every single position and each measure, with my ballot in front of me. My wife and I compare notes. We don't always agree, and that's OK.

The only reason anyone would consider taking this away from us is because they are repeating lies which have been continually debunked.

We need to stop pretending liars are making good faith arguments and dismiss this out of hand.
