

I strongly oppose mandatory in person voting.

I personally cannot afford to take a day off to stand in line to cast a ballot. If it was a mandatory paid day off, I might reconsider.

Voter engagement is hard enough as is, telling folks they not do something they want to do something they should do won't make it any better.