

Submitter: Nathan Corbett

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Judiciary

Measure, Appointment or Topic: HB2467

We need to be looking into more non-coercive options for treatment, before resorting to forced treatment options.

There is clearly a problem with the current system, as well as the timeframes referred to, but every health professional I have ever spoken to has been extremely leery of any sort of forced treatment, as it typically causes other harm to a person, and severely reduces trust in providers of mental health care.