Voting by mail is a boon to civilization. It literally enfranchises people who otherwise would not be able to get to polling stations, or have a hard time standing in line for long periods e.g. the elderly and the disabled; It's cheaper and easier than in-person voting, as no traveling costs or other accommodations are required. It encourages a higher voter turn out. It allows more time for voters to make informed/researched votes if desired. Less time is wasted in line or taking time off work to vote. There is practically zero fraud in mail-in voting. There is zero logic for anyone who believes in democracy to end mail-in voting.
