There are a few issues I see with this bill. First, what exactly are they defining as "rapid fire activators"? Does this mean any semiautomatic weapon? I feel this definition alone is far too vague for any kind of law that is put forward. Secondly, and most importantly, why does this need to have a state of emergency? To what end? I feel this just opens the door for far too much opportunity for the kind of government outreach that everyone is tired of.
