My name is Oliver Hayes and I am a farmer and nurse from Corvallis. I am writing today to support HB 3372. Currently in Oregon it is legal to water a ½ acre garden or use 5,000 gal/day for a commercial purpose, but neither of those apply to growing food and farm products for sale. Why is it legal to use the water for personal use, but selling a single zucchini from my garden would mean I was breaking the law?

This personally impacts me because: I own a small farm and would be able to scale my production much faster if I had access to any amount of well water irrigation. That means more local food, more local trees for renewable lumber and a local business paying a living wage and taxes. But without any access to ground water I'm very limited in what I can produce. And I'm prevented from growing food on a significant portion of my land.

We need to be realistic about what we prioritize for water use in our state. Allowing people to grow food or farm products for sale with a gallon restriction on ½ acre will not bankrupt the system, and farming is too much work for people to rush into production on such a small scale. Give communities back the ability to feed and provide for themselves, pass HB 3372.

Thank you,
Oliver Hayes
