This is an overreach of government authority against private property owners and farmers. There is no justifiable cause to control privately owned wells. There is no infrastructure put together by the government to deliver water or manage its quality. This is all the well owner's responsibility, and government intrusion is it welcomed by anyone with a well. It opens a door to violate our Fourth Amendment rights. The potential taxation and regulations also threaten the rural communities Oregon's elected officials pretend to respect while having little clue about what their lives are even about. Leave our well water alone.
