Government overreach. Water rights are property rights, in Oregon, those are sacred and private. This is a disgusting attempt to steal from private citizens. Many people purchase homes with a well because they want a private water supply, and they are entitled to that under the Oregon law. Just because our state is spending all its money on PERS does not mean they can go after private citizens and their property rights. We all know a regulatory agency will lead to taxes and regulations. We pay out of our pocket for these systems and their repairs. This is non-negotiable and will be challenged legally if passed.
