Cost analysis has been performed comparing diesel bus to zero emission bus and there is NO comparison. It would take 50 years to break even due to the increased cost of zero emission buses and they are put in junk yards at age 25-30 years old, so this would be a continual money loser and will have very little effect on emission situation. Perhaps if you consider putting those people in jail who terrorize the Tesla dealerships, you might do what it is you say you are attempting to do.
