I'm fighting for fair pay, protection, benefits, and a voice because I deserve to be treated like a valued worker. Driving for Uber is hard work— I rely on it to make a living, but without these rights, it's easy to feel undervalued. Fair pay means I earn enough to cover my expenses and support my family. Not just getting 50% of the money of what my clients payed. Protections and benefits give me safety and stability, and having a voice means I get to help shape the rules that affect my job. It's about respect and fairness for the work I do.
