I am the grandmother of an autistic , epileptic and non-verbal grandson and

I have watched my daughter sacrifice her life for her son because she has to. She knows more about her son & what he needs than anyone else including his doctors. She has researched, went to political meetings, just all around learned & is still learning everything she can. If anyone deserves to be paid to take care of him, it is his mom. I would rather have my tax money spent on paying parents of autistic & other handicapped children than paying for people who just don't want to work. Yes I do know several people that get everything the state gives out but sit at home making money on their computers. I vote yes on this and I hope you will too.
