

There are many places in Oregon that are crucial to restoring or maintaining the water table. For example< Cascade-Siskiyou National Monument where beavers are needed to restore the water table from channelization.