HB3624

Public schools should not pay for homeschool testing as homeschooling families are choosing to be separate from the mainstream public education system.

Homeschooling families should not be forced to follow the same system guidelines because they chose to opt out of the public system because some of those guidelines do not follow the moral and religious values, beliefs, and principles that are critical to their families and raising healthy, happy, well-adjusted adults.

Please consider saying No to this bill. This bill actually infringes on the rights of homeschool families.
