

Submitter:	Shane Watterson
On Behalf Of:	Level Beer
Committee:	House Committee On Revenue
Measure, Appointment or Topic:	HB3940

We already have a recycling system that works. We certainly don't need to increase the price on cans and make them more valuable to people living on the streets. This would be an additional hidden tax on consumers. Why is taxing beverages the cure to funding wildfires? They are completely unrelated. At least you could tax something that is actually causing climate change and increasing the risk of wildfires. This just hurts breweries which don't need additional taxes in an already difficult market.