Measure, Appointment or Topic:	HB3932

The Oregon Senate would do well to NOT impose this override of the historically successful professional wildlife managers in the state of Oregon.

Science-based wildlife management should NOT be delegated to the whim of a select segment of society, no matter what their intent should be, or how attractive the language that is used.

Under no circumstances would the public ignore the science-based management of wildlife. A parallel would be to allow for some sort of public vote of a whimsical nature to define how the road engineers should build highway bridges, or test and alter the public drinking water.
