HB3365

31,000 scientists have signed a declaration against the theory of man made climate change. If both sides of the issue are presented objectively and concurrently, I would have no objections, however, that does not appear to be the goal in this case. This curriculum appears instead to be nothing more than a one sided attempt at propaganda to a captive audience. Therefore, I strongly object to this proposed legislation and recommend it not advance out of committee.
