

Opt Out Today is a project of the Freedom Foundation, a nonprofit organization founded in 1991 to promote individual liberty, free enterprise and limited, accountable government. The Freedom Foundation's main office is located in Olympia, WA, with additional offices located across the country.

As strong advocates for individual liberty, we fundamentally believe that no worker should be forced to associate with or financially support a labor union as a condition of keeping their job.

Accordingly, we work to make sure that all public employees are fully informed of and able to exercise their constitutional rights regarding union membership and dues payment.

“Keep up the great work. I received both the email and mailer to opt-out of the union; however had already done so. Your work is the first I had seen noting the option to opt-out. Of course the unions nor the State made any effort to notify employees of the option.”

– Darla, State Employee
