Beaver are North Americas largest Rodent. After a female has her litter of 2-10 kits she immediately breeds again. Beaver are unique in that they have delayed implementation and the female has up to two years to have another litter after breeding even if she loses her mate. Populations unchecked will cause economic damage of roads and man made dam structures. Beaver felt and fur is also some of the most green garment material used in our nation. Trapping is a heritage and tradition of our communities.
