A delay of 72 hours to transfer a firearm is actually a short-term denial. If a person is concerned about their immediate safety from a former spouse or friend, a delay of 72 hours to transfer a firearm, could be a matter of life or death.

Restricting the public property adjacent to a school or other building is unconstitutional. The Supreme Court struck down the 1000 feet requirement for a gun-free zone around schools years ago. Whether it is one foot, or a 1000 feet requirement shouldn't matter. A public space exterior to a building is still a public space. And any gun-free buildings should be required to post that on their doors.
