Chintimini Wildlife Center is one of my 6 priority nonprofits to support. Other centers closed recently so Chintimini is it, They do superb work, and have been doing so for years so they are efficient and a real service to a broad area, not just Corvallis. I've taken in a squirrel with mange (treated and brought back home to release in its territory), and reported an injured duck at Stewart Lake on the HP campus, which they checked out. I always give them an extra donation when I do this. They are also available to answer questions about injured or orphaned wildlife. I love these guys, and hope if you fund anything from the available funds, it will be for something that helps our fellow beings on the planet, not just we humans!
