This is yet another bad idea.

Punishing law abiding citizens by making it more difficult to exercise our second amendment rights only increases the crime rate.

An unarmed society is the quickest way to ensure that the persons committing the crimes are more confident and emboldened as they will be the only ones armed.

A person willing to use fire arms to commit crimes does not care how many laws you pass to shackle the citizens ability to protect themselves and their families.

Only law abiding citizens will be punished by the continued erosion of our second amendment rights.
