I oppose these changes to our current laws. These do nothing but delay and discourage people from purchasing firearms. Many people travel long distances to visit sporting goods stores or attend a gun shows where they can purchase a firearm after undergoing a state and federal background check. Once approved they should be able to take their purchase with them. Not told they have to come back after three days to pick up something they are already approved to own. Most gun shows occur over a 1-2 day period and it's not clear how someone would even be able to pick up a purchase after three days since the gun show would be over. This inhibits an approved person from being able to attain personal protection in a timely manner should they feel they are in imminent danger of harm. These types of changes to our current law appear to come from out of state interest groups and it's not good that these groups are trying to influence our politicians. We can clearly see that more people oppose these changes than support them yet our politicians are ignoring the majority in order to please their out of state influencers. It just plain wrong. Voters will not forget or ignore this behavior.
