This is proof that when we give ground to unpalatable actions, believing what we are told - that "it will be limited to just that far and go no further" - we are WRONG.

When medical care can no longer offer hope, palliative care gives comfort. We do not need to offer death instead.

As for the expense, that is not justification to offer death. It is an impetus to get the greed out of the medical for obscene profit industry and bring back actual health care.

Patients are people. Not people with a price tag attached to their existence. Just people.

Those people need all the time naturally available to them to finish well. To invest every minute they have in their relationships.

Please vote "NO" to expanding the horrifying Assisted Suicide that already exists.

ALL life is precious. Yours. Mine. Everyone's.
