This is ridiculous. Yet another way for giant corporate power grabs and to hell with those of us that struggle to make due. The water rates are already high enough. The restrictions are already too numerous. Now you want more. Do you want the sweat down my back too? I mean that's water. Let's put a meter on it. Guessing you could make even more to line your greedy pockets. There's absolutely no real reason to restrict water ways any more in a state where it rains 60% of the time. We damn near flooded down at the south end this winter and your trying to say farmers can't save it and use it? Are you mental. This is legitimately insane propositions and alarming that the level of tyranny is reaching this high.
