SB238

Law enforcement has numerous tools at its disposable to collect information about residents. In fact law enforcement has so many tools which are so effective it regularly stretches the constitutional right to privacy to the breaking point. Even considering giving law enforcement additional evidence collection tools without dramatic changes in oversight and structuring of law enforcement and its role in society seems absurd and is frankly offensive to me as a citizen. Please take this time and effort and direct it to improving housing, healthcare, or education services.
