I for one am tired of being fleeced by ODOT and their incestuous contractors. No new megaprojects for ODOT fraudulently low-ball the cost estimates, because once these things are started all their cost-overruns will be funded with no consequences. I think the current ODOT should be sunsetted for being unreformable, and new public transportation body stood-up with none of the previous organization's personnel involved.

In the meantime the transportation fund should be split among the Counties and Cities, Metro, Tri-Met, and Amtrak.
