It permits the Oregon Bureau of Labor and Industries (BOLI) to adopt rules to conform to changes in the FLSA that increase protections for minors.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

The federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) establishes minimum wage, overtime, recordkeeping, and youth employment standards for employees in the private sector and in federal, state, and local governments. The FLSA's child labor provisions were designed to ensure that the employment of minors is safe and does not compromise their health, well-being, or educational opportunities, while also allowing for limited exemptions. Employers are generally required to comply with both state child labor laws and federal child labor regulations under the FLSA. In Oregon, state law directly aligns with the FLSA's child labor regulations regarding the maximum number of hours a minor may work in nonagricultural employment.

Minors aged 14 and 15 in nonagricultural employment are limited to the following periods when school is in session:

- Maximum of 3 hours on school days
- Maximum of 8 hours on non-school days
- Maximum of 18 hours per week
- Hours are limited to between 7:00 am and 7:00 pm
- No work during school hours

Minors aged 14 and 15 in nonagricultural employment are limited to the following periods when school is not in session:

- Maximum of 8 hours per day and 40 hours per week
- From June 1 through Labor Day, hours are limited to between 7:00 am and 9:00 pm
