BACKGROUND:

The WBF is supported by assessments based on each hour of work performed by a worker subject to Oregon workers' compensation law and workers whom an employer chooses to cover with workers' compensation insurance. Presently, the WBF assessment is 1.8 cents per hour worked. It is an employer's responsibility to collect and pay the full WBF assessment. The programs and services supported by the WBF are specified in law. The WBF supports cost-of-living increases to the monthly payments made to permanently and totally disabled workers, and to the spouses and children of workers who died because of an occupational injury or disease, a program for employment and reemployment of workers with disabilities, and monetary incentives for Oregon employers to hire or rehire injured workers. Specified funds within the WBF may also be used for expenses of the Oregon Institute of Occupational Health Sciences at Oregon Health & Science University. The WBF may also be used for BOLI expenses for activities related to the investigation of discrimination against an injured worker.

BOLI's duties are set forth in law and include enforcement of all laws regulating the employment of adults and minors; all laws established for the protection of the health, lives, and limbs of people employed in workshops, factories, mills, and other places; all laws enacted for the protection of employees; laws that declare it to be a misdemeanor on the part of employers to require as a condition of employment the surrender of any rights of citizenship; and laws regulating and prescribing the qualifications of persons in apprenticeable trades and crafts and similar laws.
