Please, we have all read the back of our lift tickets and we all know that we can just go hike a back country mountain any time we want, because, this is American and we know the responsibility of enjoying the outdoors is our own. Anyone who denies that is a sneaky snake who is just looking to capitalize on their own lack of ability and attention to safety. Clearly, if an operation hurts you from clear neglect, you will still be able to get compensated. I know that it takes alot to run a ski area and frivolous lawsuits destroy communities that are already struggling. Do the right thing and protect the tradition of outdoor recreation.
