I strongly support SJR 203 to place an amendment to the Oregon Constitution limiting the ability of law enforcement officers to be anonymous. This is the least we can do in controlling the dictatorial disregard for the rule of law by the current federal administration. This would not be necessary in a different world, but in the real world of today, it is a small step that--assuming that there is an election in November 2026--we must take. Even if the federal government ignores the Bill of Rights in the United Constitution, the sovereign State of Oregon needs to be perfectly clear in its position and be ready to stand for itself as necessary.
