Topic:

I support this bill. It is not safe or practical to continue to store 90% of Oregon's liquid fuel in one location, the Critical Energy Infrastructure hub (CEI hub). This location is susceptible to great disaster since it is located on an earthquake zone and on land subject to liquefaction. Also, should there be any type of disaster that made the fuel stored there inaccessible, the entire state of Oregon could be in a situation that caused them to be without fuel necessary for emergency vehicles and other needs. We must diversify the storage of Oregon's liquid fuels.
